

The Elizabeth Van Cleaf Institute presents

HEROES AND VILLAINS:

From Artifacts to AI

During this professional development institute, grades 6-12 educators will learn to curate primary sources & design lessons that develop students' historical empathy and encourage appropriate use of AI technology.

Despite our best efforts, history instruction often focuses on “great man” theories that inappropriately judge historical actors by present-day standards. In Heroes and Villains, participants will engage revolutionary figures from NJ and beyond on their terms -- as human beings. Through historical empathy, we will perceive, emotionally experience, and contextualize historical figures' lived experiences to better teach our students about the good and the bad of those whose lives still touch ours today.
